*More About
Genetically Changed and Us*

Serie-6

*Prepared and presented by
A. Yahya Yunus*

In these slide series, I want to share some other additional points about gcs (genetically changed) in Sa Allah (if God Wills). These items are some on wider aspect.

For the ones Who didn't hear about it, Let's outline that genetically changed is haram (prohibited) in Islam as it is being the devils' to order to try to change the Creation (by refering to the ayat from Surah An-Nisa)

As, I heard from some to dig the seeds to the terrain in a careless manner; I rather say to be careful about it and not to dig or throw a suspicious item to the terrain as it might be a gc.

But if you trust what you have, you may try.

On the other hand, a better and careful action could be done by going to the field.

Than, it could be checked/searched if there were gcs.. even by your ownelves by acting cleverer, if Allah Wills..

It could be the info for even everybody as well as the farmers that : the absence of the usual visiting organisms to the plants might be an indication for a proof for an existance of a gc.

In the conditions of today's world, it could be right for the farmer to keep / save / preserve and protect the natural seed he/she had known & trusted all along his/her while and not changing them anyhow if they were what is trustable as organic.

Especially if those seeds were coming to him/her with a suppression of using some drug supplies etc. with the seeds, than the farmers have really a much reason to suspect.(unless an open confession otherwise)

So, not to dig such things to the terrain in Sa Allah.

The farmer could be reasoning / questioning, he/she could know the right is what Allah Has Created and taking a proper action according to this.

Could be vigilant and orserver of his/her field and protecting his/her natural seed.

He/she should not be like of that who had changed the treasure in his hand for the evil calculation he made.

Additionally, the condition of gc cotton, soya, corn, canola is seen in today's world. Many obvious bad effects verify the Truthness of The Ayats of Allah. At this point, we gave some examples of lessons in the slide shows beforehand.

We hope that Allah Protects the clean food supplies from the reach of the evil hands.

Certainly, He is Allah, The Most Generous, The Most Merciful
